

Bio for Mary Kay Brown

Rev. Mary Kay Brown's call to ministry began with her work as a medical social worker focused on hospice care. Her passion for exploring deep spiritual questions led her to seminary at VTS and she was ordained a priest in 2008. She served at St. Paul's in Alexandria before she accepted a call as rector to St. David's in Ashburn in 2009. Her passions for ministry include preaching and teaching, pastoral care, engaged discipleship, creation care, and racial reconciliation.

Mary Kay retired in 2022, and now focuses on travel, enjoying time with family and friends, reading and wondering/wandering in God's creation, especially along the North Carolina coast. She serves as a supply priest in the area and has a spiritual direction practice. She loves talking to people about God and what God is doing in their lives.

She and her husband Mark live in Ashburn and have two adult children.
